PROHIBITED COMMERCIAL ACTIVITIES IN NORWAY

To whom it may concern

Oslo 24.5.2018

The Football Association of Norway hereby inform that commercial activities related to alcohol, tobacco and betting companies is prohibited in Norway.

Thus, according to the UEFA Kit regulations edition 2012 article 32.02: Any bans or restrictions stemming from the national legislation of the country in which, a UEFA competition match is taking place, also apply, no teams playing in Norway may advertise such products in any way while they are playing in Norway.

Tobacco:

All forms of advertising for tobacco products are prohibited.

Tobacco products must not be included in the advertising of other goods or services. A brand that is primarily known as a tobacco brand can not be used in advertising for other goods or services, as long as the current brand is used in conjunction with a tobacco product.

Alcohol:

Advertising for alcoholic beverages is prohibited. The prohibition also applies to advertising for other goods with the same brand or characteristics as alcoholic beverages. Such goods must also not be included in the advertisement of other goods or services.

Betting:

Without the lawfully permission, it is not allowed to convey gambling in connection with sports competitions and other competitions.

It is prohibited to advertise, publish to the public or otherwise distribute announcements about foreign gambling relating to sports competitions and other competitions.

A state-owned limited company, in which the state owns all the shares, shall be the gambling company.

Should you have any questions related to this, or other commercial activities, please do not hesitate to consult us.

Kind regards

Rune Nordhaug

Head of Club Support

WELCOME TO SARPSBORG

While there have been settlements at this site for as long as 7,000 years, Sarpsborg itself was founded by Norwegian King Olav Haraldsson (later St. Olav, Norway's patron saint) as he sailed up the river Glomma in the year 1016. He was stopped by the massive waterfall Sarpsfossen, and chose the site as his capital.

Today Sarpsborg can offer a multitude of activities both indoors and outdoors, in the scenic forests, by the lakes or the sea. The municipality also hosts a number of exciting cultural events and festivals throughout the year.
